Creighton University Homecoming • Sept. 17-20

Creighton University School of Dentistry
Dear Fellow Creighton Alumni:

I look forward to seeing many of our alumni return to campus for homecoming. This weekend offers many great opportunities such as: continuing education courses, class reunions, the GoldenJays luncheon, a Dean’s update and more. Dennis Higgenbotham, DDS’67, will be honored as the School of Dentistry Alumni Merit Award recipient at the President’s Alumni Dinner.

Also this is an opportunity for you to meet, interact and hear from our new president, Rev. Daniel S. Hendrickson, S.J.

This weekend should be a time of learning, celebration and reconnecting with former friends and faculty.

Mark Latta, DMD, M.S.
Dean of the School of Dentistry

Dr. and Mrs. Alvin R. Posey Alumni Continuing Education Lecture
“Temporomandibular Disorders Diagnosis and Management: Current Concepts”
Presented by Henry A. Gremillion, DDS, MAGD

Temporomandibular disorders (TMD) encompass a multitude of conditions which involve the temporomandibular joints, muscles of mastication, and/or contiguous structures. Many TMD diagnostic subgroups share common clinical characteristics. Diagnosis and management of TMD has been associated with many misconceptions and much debate. It is now recognized that multiple factors are involved with the initiation and/or perpetuation of TMD. Additionally, we now have a greater appreciation for the total pain experience including pain mechanisms/pathways and pain referral in the head and neck. The importance of individualizing diagnosis and management for optimum therapeutic outcomes is well-recognized. This course will emphasize diagnosis and non-surgical management of this challenging, yet common group of musculoskeletal disorders.

At the end of this lecture, participants should be aware of:
• the rationale for a thorough history and examination.
• current concepts of pain referral in the head and neck.
• diagnostic criteria for commonly occurring TMD subgroups.
• etiologic considerations essential for case-specific management.
• reversible approaches to management in the vast majority of cases.
• the development of a “case-specific” plan of care for each patient.
• the concept of multidisciplinary management of TMD.

The Role of Physical Therapy in Treatment of TMD
Presented by Dan Peetz, PT, OCS, MTC

The anatomy of the head, neck and shoulders will be reviewed to show their influence on the temporomandibular joint, as well as structures in the spine and pelvis that can contribute to oralfascial pain.

At the end of this lecture, participants should be able to understand:
• which musculoskeletal structures can influence the TMJ.
• how posture effects the TMJ.
• parafunctional habits that worsen TMD.

OSA: It is Worse Than You Thought
Presented by Naresh A. Dewan, M.D.
Learn about the pathophysiology and comorbidity associated with OSA and the impact of treatment on outcomes.

At the end of this lecture, participants should be able to:
• review the pathophysiology of OSA.
• describe multiple comorbidities associated with OSA.
• evaluate the impact of PAP treatment on outcomes.

9:15 a.m.
Break and Exhibitor Visits

9:30 a.m.
T.J. Urban, Ph.D. Annual Continuing Education Lecture (1)
Presented by Jeffrey W. Horowitz, DMD, FAGD
Comprehensive Diagnosis of Obstructive Sleep Apnea
Obstructive Sleep Apnea must be ultimately diagnosed by a board certified sleep physician after completion of a sleep study. The dentist however, plays an integral role in getting the suspected patient to the point of diagnosis. This course will discuss the screening and protocol for suggesting a sleep study, whether it be a full in-lab PSG or an at-home sleep study. A detailed look at a typical sleep study will help the participant understand how to interpret the reports and fully understand the diagnosis.

At the end of this lecture, participants should be aware of:
• when and why it is indicated to order a sleep study.
• the differences between a home sleep study and an in-lab PSG.
• how to read and understand a typical sleep study.
• what to expect from the physician’s report.
• how to proceed with treatment once a diagnosis is made.

T.J. Urban, Ph.D., Annual Continuing Education Lecture (2)
Presented by Jeffrey W. Horowitz, DMD, FAGD

Understanding the Sleep Study and Implementing Sleep Dentistry into your Practice
You have the knowledge and skills to begin treating patients with OSA, but how do you find the patients to treat? What materials are needed? This course is designed to help you identify the large population of patients within your own practice that are practically begging for your help. How and when to bring up the conversation is the critical factor in getting your patients on-board and committed to treatment. Understanding the relationship of the primary care physician, specialist and dentist makes the treatment process smooth while building trust for the patient. Putting these pieces together will quickly build your sleep practice, and once this is done effectively, outside marketing can be considered.

At the end of this lecture, participants should be aware of:
• how to identify patients within your practice that may benefit from evaluation and/or treatment.
• when and how to bring up the topic of sleep disordered breathing with your patients.
• what materials are needed to begin discussing sleep disordered breathing with your patients.
• developing relationships with primary care physicians, specialists and sleep labs to enhance your reputation.
• bringing a patient through treatment from the initial conversation.
• billing and insurance concerns.
• outside marketing opportunities.
